

Little would we know, Christopher Columbus getting blown off course and on his final voyage to the New World, would sight two small islands one of the two later to be know as Little Cayman. I would bet he would not believe this island would become a "bucket list dive destination". Maybe the tale of the English navy privateers allowed to pirate as a way to make a living in the waters of the Cayman draws people to this paradise. Or just maybe it is the majestic crystal clear waters, the turtles, the prestine sheer walls of reef and critter galore....Join us and see for yourself.
